

SUBWAY ENTRANCE FOR THE BRIDGE.

Evening World's Plan Recommended by Chief Engineer Parsons to Rapid Transit Board.

The Rapid Transit Board this afternoon favorably considered William Barclay Parsons' plan for the relief of the congestion at the Manhattan end of the Brooklyn Bridge.

The plan of the chief engineer of the commission is elaborate, the chief feature being the adoption of The Evening World plan for a direct connection of the underground rapid transit system and the Brooklyn Bridge cars at Park Row and the bridge terminal by an underground passageway from the bridge to the underground station.

It is the belief of Mr. Parsons, judging from observation, that the bulk of the bridge congestion is caused by the sudden throwing upon the transportation facilities of the tens of thousands who work on the east side of Manhattan Island below Frankfort street and live in Brooklyn.

The ferries below the bridge have been and always will be unable to take care of any considerable portion of this traffic.

For a Trolley Tunnel.
Mr. Parsons advocates the construction of a tunnel under the East River from a convenient point in Brooklyn to a station in Maiden lane, this tunnel to continue clear across Manhattan Island.

Provision is also made for an underground connection between the bridge entrance and the Maiden lane tunnel.

Mr. Parsons also advocates the running of Second Avenue trolleys over the City Hall branch from Chatham Square to the Pulitzer Building. This would

$4,000,000 GIFT TO NEW YORK CITY.

John M. Burke, Retired Merchant, Gives Fortune to Aid Poor Convalescents.

John M. Burke, an old merchant, long resident in the city of New York, who retired from business years ago, has given a $4,000,000 gift to the people of New York.

Mr. Burke concluded to dedicate in his lifetime a substantial part of his estate to the relief of worthy men and women, who, notwithstanding their willingness to support themselves, have become wholly or partly unable to do so by reason of sickness or misfortune, or who have been discharged from hospitals before regaining sufficient strength to assume their regular employments.

With this object in view Mr. Burke has conveyed to a corporation, named the Winifred Masterson Burke Relief Foundation, in honor of her mother, real and personal property of a value estimated at $4,000,000.

The trustees of this corporation, in addition to Mr. Burke, are Abram S. Hewitt, William Hubbard White, Edward M. Shepard and Frank K. Sturges.

The property has been conveyed to the corporation, but the income, less the current expenses of administration, is reserved to Mr. Burke for

MOONSHINE WHISKEY CHILDREN AFTER SEIZED IN STREET. 'WORKING PAPERS.'

Revenue Agents Stopped a Wagon in Which Were Fifteen Five-Gallon Kegs, but Driver Escaped.

Internal revenue men to-day stopped a wagon passing through Alvin street in which they found fifteen five-gallon kegs of moonshine whiskey. A man and a boy were in the wagon. When the revenue agents attempted to arrest the man he threw one of them from the wagon and escaped. He was chased by the agents with drawn revolvers. Several spectators said that shots were fired, but this was later denied by Revenue Agent F. G. Thompson, who is in charge of the local office. The boy was questioned. He said he had taken the whiskey from a "Russian fruit distiller" in Brooklyn for delivery at a store on the east side. Agent Thompson is making an investigation. He suspects that there has been a large traffic in illicit whiskey conducted through the agency of the man who escaped. He has the man's name and says he will be under arrest before to-morrow.

Business success depends upon energy, ability and Sunday World.

WASHINGTON PARK, BROOKLYN, July 1.—Having captured the first game of the double-header from the Quakers by a score of 2 to 1, Ned Hanlon's aggregation tackled the Phillies again in the second game with plenty of confidence. Although the Brooklyn did manage to win they were greatly assisted in carrying off the game through the errors of Childs and Doolin. Both Kitsom and White pitched a splendid game, each being hit only five times.

When the second game began there were 4,000 persons present. The only changes in the teams being the batteries, Donovan and Ahearn occupying the points for Brooklyn, while Iberg and Jackitsch did the honors for the visitors.

First Inning.
Thomas drove a grounder to Irwin and perished at first. Barry's high raser to centre was nailed by Doolin. Hulsitt then passed the ball along the third-base line for two bases and crossed the plate on Jackitsch's pretty line drive to right for a bag. Douglas's bouncer to Dahlen forced Jackitsch at second. One run.

Dolan singled to right. Keeler's high foul fly was grandly captured by Jackitsch. The ball to left for a bag, sending Dolan to second. McCreary then singled to right, scoring. Dahlen advanced Sheppard to third. On Barry's throw to Hallman McCreary sprang to second. Dahlen then threw out at first by Hallman, allowing Sheppard to score and McCreary to reach third. Irwin was retired by Hulsitt and Douglas. Two runs.

Second Inning.
Browne was called out on strike. Hallman smashed out a line fly deep to right. Keeler gathered in. Childs' hot bouncer struck Donovan's hands and bounded to Flood, who threw him out at first. No runs.

Ahearn was the first trolley dodger to fan the air. Flood also made three desperate but unsuccessful swipes at

CONGRESS ENDS SESSION AT 5.30.

Naval and Philippine Bills Are Passed and Resolution of Adjournment Adopted by Both Houses.

WASHINGTON, July 1.—Congress adjourns at 5.30 o'clock to-day. Both Houses have passed the resolution which was adopted in the Ways and Means Committee after a sharp fight by the Democrats under the leadership of Mr. Richardson.

The Democrats insisted upon a week for consideration of trust legislation.

The House accepted the conference report on the Naval Appropriation without division. The result was the signal for much applause.

The conference on the bill agreed on a compromise on the disputed item as to building warships in government yards, specifically providing that one battleship shall be constructed in a government yard.

The Senate adopted the conference reports on both the Naval and Philippine bills, which left them ready for the signature of the President as soon as they were enrolled.

President Roosevelt will be at the Capitol this afternoon for the purpose of signing the belated bills.

REFUSES TO ADJUDGE MARKS IN CONTEMPT.

Justice Giegerich, in the Supreme Court to-day, denied the motion to have William L. Marks, purchasing agent for the Fire Department under Commissioner John J. Scannell's administration, adjudged in contempt of court. The application was made on behalf of Louis B. Hasbrouck, receiver for M. Powers & Co., the firm in which Marks was associated. Marks refused to deliver to the receiver contract made by him with the V.L. France and the American Fire Engine companies, and to account for the commissions received from those companies.

Umpire—Cantillon.

(Special to The Evening World.)

POLO GROUNDS, NEW YORK, July 1.—"What, Honus Wagner a Giant!" That was the exclamation of the few fans who came to this field to see if the Giants are really capable of playing worse ball than they have been putting up. The name "Wagner" did not occur in the Giants' batting order, but Umpire Cantillon's announcement of such a being caused the universal "v. But, no, it wasn't the only Honus. Didn't look like Honus. He did act like Honus. His uniform did not fit him. Full-grown uniform would Honus. I did not handle a bat like Honus, either, and, of course, it wasn't Honus.

The fellow has never had his name written in the long list of big leaguers. Manager George Smith did not know anything about him, other than that his name was Wagner. He did not know whether he was a graduate of the sand lots of Canarsie or from some big university of from some minor league. He was a Wagner, and his name was probably his recommendation. He was not even related to the great Honus.

Anyway, in a suit that fitted him where it shouldn't, he camped around that section of the diamond and Joe Bean has been covering for a couple of months. In practice he was pretty good, but by that one could not tell how fine he would be in the game. He was a young fellow, anyway, and he looks as though he had a couple of score years to live, anyway.

The shock of hearing the name of such a great player as a Giant wore off, and the "faithful" fans began looking over the rest of the order. The name of Lauder was missing, for the injury incurred by him yesterday caused his being out of the game. A good thing for his reputation, yes? Johnny Dunn, the man of all work, was found attending.

CROCKER ON THE STAND ONCE MORE.

This Time in Bankruptcy Proceedings Brought by Miss Stedeker, Who Also Sues for Breach of Promise.

The taking of testimony was resumed to-day before Referee Morris S. Wise in the bankruptcy proceedings begun by Evelyn Stedeker against Alvin E. Crocker, in connection with her $50,000 breach-of-promise suit against the defendant.

Miss Stedeker, accompanied by her counsel, William O. Grant, and Miss Reed, a woman friend, was on hand early. Mr. Crocker, the aged defendant, was several minutes late.

Miss Stedeker's counsel at once called up Crocker for cross-examination. "What was the full name of the man who introduced you to Miss Stedeker?" was his first question.

"Jones" was the answer. "That's all I can remember of it." A letter written by the defendant from the Hotel Burke, Prescott, Ariz., was then offered in evidence. It was addressed to "Dear Eva."

"Who was 'Dear Eva'?" Was it Miss Stedeker?"

Mr. Crocker said it was. The letter was not read in court.

Witness next testified that he had been interested in mining property ever since 1881, but did not consider himself an expert. He had been interested in fifteen or twenty mines during those years.

Another of Mr. Crocker's epistles to Miss Stedeker was introduced by the latter's counsel. The defendant identified it as having been written by him. The letter, which was dated March 30, 1899, and written from Prescott, Ariz., opens in this way:

"Dear Eva: Your letter to general delivery just reached here, on my return from the mountains. I cannot see what those visions and crows are after. I hate to breathe the atmosphere of a city which contains such beings—gamblers, blackmailers, assassins and thieves. I don't want to hear from them any more."

"For some reason not explained Mr. Grant suddenly flashed an umbrella on the defendant, which had been kept by Miss Stedeker carefully concealed in a paper cover."

"Did you ever see that before?" asked Mr. Grant dramatically. Mr. Crocker swore that he had not. "Leon Stedeker, a brother of Miss Stedeker, was next called. He testified that he had first met Crocker at the house of Miss Reed while calling on his sister."

DISBROW IS ARRAIGNED; "NOT GUILTY" HIS PLEA.

Prisoner Is Charged Specifically with the Murder of Clarence Foster and "Dimple" Lawrence—Mrs. Foster in Court Room—Examination at 9 o'Clock To-Morrow.

SOUTHAMPTON, July 1.—Louis A. Disbrow was arraigned here before Justice Foster at 1 o'clock this afternoon. He was charged, specifically, with the murder of Clarence Foster and Sarah Lawrence.

The plea entered by his attorney was NOT GUILTY.

An immediate examination was asked for. It was set for 9 o'clock to-morrow morning, to be held in Union Hall, Good Ground.

Disbrow was brought into court by Sheriff Wells. He was accompanied by his two lawyers, Rowland Miles and James Lynch, the latter of Manhattan.

The court-room was crowded. Among the spectators and perhaps the most interested—was Mrs. Clarence Foster, widow of the man who, as is alleged, was killed by Disbrow because of his love for "Dimple" Lawrence.

As Disbrow stepped to the bar Justice Foster said:

"You have been brought here on a warrant charging you with murder in the first degree. In that, between the hours of 3 and 5 on the morning of June 10, you did premeditatedly, wilfully and deliberately take the lives of Clarence Foster and Sarah Lawrence, by striking and beating them and then throwing their bodies into the water of Tanna Bay."

DISBROW UNMOVED.

The Justice then read the names of the witnesses upon whose testimony the warrant was issued and thereupon asked the prisoner to plead.

Disbrow stood erect and mum. He did not appear to be moved by any remarkable extent.

"Your Honor," said Attorney Miles, "my plea is 'Not guilty.' We ask for an immediate examination."

District-Attorney Smith requested that the hearing be postponed until to-morrow so that he may subpoena the State's witnesses. Justice Foster accordingly set the hearing for to-morrow.

MINER SHOT DOWN BY POLICE.

First Fatal Clash Since the Beginning of the Big Coal Strike at Duryea To-Day.

(Special to The Evening World.)
WILKESBARRE, July 1.—The first fatal clash since the beginning of the coal strike occurred to-day.

One of a crowd of men who attacked the William A. Colliery of the Lehigh Valley Coal Company, at Old Forge, was shot and killed by a guard.

Sheriff Schadt arrived on the scene early and took charge. Five shots were fired into the colliery through the stockade and ripped through the company office where some of the guards were asleep. None was struck. One of the guards replied, firing his gun with a charge of buckshot.

Other guards assembled to repel an attack, but none was made. The man who was killed was Antonio Galsuene.

Officials of the United Mine Workers are at work to-day among the miners employed by C. Partridge & Co. and Cox Bros. & Co., who have been asked to return to work. A break in the ranks of the strikers is considered possible at these collieries.

The fear that efforts would be made to resume work to-day at some of the collieries in the Hasleton region caused active campaigning there. All roads to the mines were guarded and pickets succeeded in turning back all the men who tried to go to work.

At 8 in the morning and appointed Union Hall, Good Ground.

Nearly all the witnesses live in Good Ground.

Disbrow was taken back to Riverhead on the 431 train by the Sheriff and again locked up in the county jail over night.

ON TRAIN WITH WIDOW

Disbrow arrived here in the Sheriff's custody at noon. Mrs. Clarence Foster came on the same train.

A big crowd gathered at the station to see the Good Ground tragedy principal. Nearly the whole village turned out.

The prisoner was at once driven to the Post-Office Building, where Justice Foster held court. From there, after a brief conference, he was taken to the Griffin House, to wait there until the time of the arraignment.

Mrs. Foster went directly from the station to the court-house. She was dressed in deep mourning. No one was with her.

On entering the court-room she was taken to a seat by one of the attendants.

Disbrow appeared more cheerful than he was on leaving Riverhead, where he had spent a disagreeable night in jail and was intensely nervous.

WAS WELL DRESSED.

He smoked cigarettes and busied himself reading papers.

The prisoner was well dressed in a black coat and waistcoat, light trousers, a swagger necktie, patent leather shoes and a straw hat.

On the way to Southampton the Sheriff's party sat in the last coach of the train. They occupied the last seat. The blinds of the car window were pulled tight, to the chagrin of the curious crowds.

No one was allowed to speak to Disbrow, although several women attempted it.

District-Attorney Smith and Detective Field met the Sheriff and his prisoner at the station.

Before going back to Riverhead with his client, Lawyer Miles said:

"I expect that the examination will take nearly a week. I will waive none of my rights in the trial, and the testimony of witnesses will take a long time."

JERSEY TROLLEY LINES TO MERGE.

Big Corporation Will Include Roads in Several Cities—Deal May Be Completed in Ten Days.

(Special to The Evening World.)
NEWARK, N. J., July 1.—Chancellor Chandler and Adrian Riker are at the head of a syndicate composed of New York financial men, which has practically completed plans for the purchase of all the trolley lines in North Jersey.

It is learned that definite proposals to the majority holders of stock in the various companies comprising the North Jersey Street Railway Company will be made this week and if accepted, that options are to be signed by those holders before July 10.

The syndicate's plan contemplates a consolidation under one management of all the trolley lines owned by the North Jersey Street Railway Company, the Jersey City, Hoboken and Paterson lines and the Orange and Passaic Valley Company properties. The new holding company will be a securities company and its plan for obtaining control of the stock of the various corporations is similar in some respects to that of the Northern Securities Company.

The options, which are expected to be signed next week, will constitute a majority of the stock, and when this is secured directors selected by the syndicate will be placed in control of the various companies at the ensuing annual election.

HELD ON CHARGE OF INCITING RIOT.

Rudolph Grossman, thirty-two years old, address refused, was held in Centre Street Court to-day pending the issuance of requisition papers on a charge of rioting in Paterson on June 15, preferred by Leroy Hartley, of No. 18 Bear street, that city.

The affidavit supporting the complaint alleges that Mr. Hartley saw Grossman marching with a crowd of riotous persons in Paterson on June 15. Bertram London appeared as counsel for Grossman and tried to have the case against his client dismissed, but unsuccessfully. Deputy Assistant District-Attorney Ralph Shaw appeared for the prosecution. Grossman is said to be an editorial writer on an Austin-Humans paper. In court there were a number of Grossman's friends, who were much disappointed when he was held. One of his sympathizers looked like Emma Goldman.
